

Hey, "Cards" fanatic! You know who you are. You are like me. Very much like me. OK, maybe not a private investigator, cleaner, enforcer, fixer and ruthless assassin, but we do share one passion: We love "Cards." Yeah, I could be talking euchre. Or I could be talking the St. Louis baseball team. Or maybe that Hallmark greetings touch our fancy. But, truthfully, I'm a nut when it comes to my "Cards" fix on Nutfix.

So when Dickie Fleegle sent me this book, I was elated. I peruse these plot notes before I rewatch an episode and after. There is so much to remember about this fabulous show. Sure I am a loveable scumbag on another fabulous show myself. But between takes of "Just Jingle Jimmy," (another loveable scumbag, no?) I play euchre, send out sappy greeting cards, root for St. Louis and, most importantly, binge watch "Cards." And I always have this devotees' companion book nearby.

Author Dickie Fleegle strives to be accurate and comprehensive, with "strives" being the operational word here for Fleegle, a well-meaning, fellow Nutfix "Cards" fanatic. Rewatch the first season. Read and reread Fleegle's companion plot reference. It's better than Mao's little red book, "War and Peace," "Fifty Shades of Grey," "Twilight" and "The Art of the Deal" combined. If you don't think so, I'll gladly bust you in the chops.

—Your friend, Mike.

HOUSE of CURDS

Devotees' Plot Companion:
Season One

